STATE WARNS NEW MEXICANS TO BE WARY OF UNSCRUPLOUS CONTRACTORS FOLLOWING STORM

SANTA FE – The New Mexico Regulation and Licensing Department warns New Mexicans who live in areas recently affect by tornados, to be wary of unlicensed contractors performing unpermitted work.

New Mexico Regulation and Licensing Superintendent, Marguerite Salazar stated, “When hiring a contractor to complete repairs, you need to be careful not to be taken advantage by unlicensed contractors. Please call our office to check a contractor’s credentials, and make sure the contractor gets the proper permits. We can help protect you from dishonest people”.

Recent storms in Chaves County and the surrounding areas have caused major damage to roofs, carports, and manufactured homes.

Where equipment replacement or repairs must be performed in an emergency situation, application for the appropriate permit must be made on the next working business day either by computer or in person at one of the Department’s regional offices. You can also contact the offices, if more time is needed.

The New Mexico Regulation and Licensing Department’s, Construction Industries and Manufactured Housing Division can be contacted online at www.rld.state.nm.us or by phone at each regional office:
